The Wandering Tower

The 2020 global crisis gives no other option than reinventing the ways to practice transnational communication and to cope with the COVID-19 pandemic by using real events combined with remote tools during the Mahalla Festival 2020. The main venues are located in Istanbul, but events are accompanied by international contributions and participations. The Festival has participants and partners in and from Austria, Afghanistan, Canada, Eritrea, Germany, Holland, Iraq, Malta, Russia, Switzerland, Syria, and Turkey. The inspiration for the topic is a piece of Literature with its own miracle story.

For a long time it was unknown to the general public that Sergei Prokofiev also had literary ambitions. After Lucian Plessner came across these stories during a guest performance in Moscow, he was able to translate and publish these stories in German, with the support of Oleg Prokofiev and has since given readings with these stories - in over 30 bookstores, the SWR Literature Night, the LitCologne, the Beethoven Orchestra Bonn and other forums.

Istanbul - Dec 15 - Dec 29, 2020

A Festival of music, literature, contemporary art, debates and several activities combining events that invite local and international participants to mobilize visitors to explore communities under new aspects.

Conceptual Framework

The Wandering Tower is the title of a surrealist short story by Sergej Prokofiev from the times of vivid migration movements on the edge of the world wars. Prokofiev's mother fled to Istanbul after the October Revolution and was interned at the Princes' islands by the Ottoman government. The First World War was about to end. The Middle East had been an important front.

The son had traveled parallel with the Trans Siberian Express Train from Russia over Japan to the USA to pursue his career as a composer and musician. This trip lasted 18 days in those times. The Wandering Tower was written during this travel. While the newly expanded railway networks and information technology spurred cultural exchange opportunities, the military and ideological conflicts triggered forced migration. Later on Prokofiev traveled to Istanbul to pick up his mother for moving on to France and Germany. Motives from the trip and the region influenced a couple of short stories. The world was on the cusp of a global catastrophe, a time when central classical works of art were being created around the world.

The Wandering Tower tells the story of a French Assyriologist, who spent his life studying the mystery of the Tower of Babel. When he announces a groundbreaking scientific discovery after a trip to Mesopotamia, the Eiffel Tower jumps out of its foundations at night and races eastwards through France, marauding. He wants to go to Babylon. When the tower causes tremendous destruction the Assyriologist suddenly gets aware of his mysterious involvement as the cause of the disaster. He destroys his notebook with all the results of his recent scientific discoveries, which he was planning to announce.

The Festival is quoting the title as a metaphorical frame for Mahalla 2020/2021. The tower of Babel is connected as a motive to the search for the origin of language and the access to the divine. And it is connected to a region, where the first known Epics emerged with the Pyramid Texts and the Epic of Gilgamesh. It triggered an endless production of stories and art productions, whose motifs are often similar, but whose diversity reflects the richness of human existence. In our interpretation, the Wandering Tower is satirically questioning the search for a monolith truth: a one and only religion, an ideological order or meta- code defining all meanings.

As the ambitions for dominance of political, ideological and economical powers is an ongoing phenomena in our globalized, digitalized, post-factual age, the Mahalla Festival uses the pandemic crisis to invite to join a space for the exchange of ideas and intellectual discourse in artistic productions and discussion rooms.

The Festival in Istanbul is organized by the Istanbul-based DIALOGUE with the support of the Federal Consulate General of Germany, the Ministry of Arts, Culture, Education and Sports of the Austrian Federal State, the Municipality of Beşiktaş and Beltaş A.Ş.

Artistic Forms of Expression

The Festival calls for new artistic practices and narratives on the topic's migration and borders, communities and diversity, new city cultures, mobile citizenship and future demands. We invite cultural initiatives and artists to revise the concept of classifications and border settings in historical, political, esthetical and discursive dimensions. Patterns of identity classified in races or ethnics, gender roles, language conventions, melody-forms, storylines, choreographies and visualization conventions can be quoted, transformed, ridiculed or overtaken.

The main topics identity, exile and migration are alignments. The participants of the Festival are able to pick up the idea of transforming dystopia in any kind of form or media. The main task is to reflect how communication styles are working out narratives about identity, cultural references, territorial borders, the right for or restriction of mobility, the possibilities of personal development and the participation in public representations connected to the results of communication in a globalized world characterized by a certain dualism regarding the access to resources, mobility, technology and safety. The concept for the artistic production is free for metaphorical interpretations in any direction.

Objectives of the Festival

Mahalla is a traveling Festival of Contemporary Art, Music, Theatre, Film and Literature, with several ancillary events running alongside it.

The general vision of the Festival is to question a dystopian reality of excluding “the other” in the form of the migrant, the poor, the opposite sex, the animal, the environment, and the unknown. The Title, Mahalla, refers to the word mahalla used in many languages and countries meaning neighborhood or location originated in Arabic mähallä. from the root meaning ‘to settle’, ‘to occupy’ derived from the verb halla (to untie), as in untying a packhorse or camel to make a camp.

After Mahalla Istanbul 2017 and Mahalla Malta 2018 the Festival was supposed to travel to Arbil in Northern Iraq in 2019. It was canceled due to the instability in the region and security obstacles. Cyprus was the new destination foreseen for 2020, but it was canceled as well as a location due to the pandemic crisis and the closed borders between the two parts of the divided island. Istanbul will serve now as the central location with connected destinations from Canada, Europe and Asia.

30 Years after the “East-Block” dissolved and the wall in Berlin was demolished, we have other blocks, borders, fences and walls imprisoning people. The Mahalla Festival is questioning these realities and picks out the sources of migration. The artistic program and the discourse platform explore the potential of art and culture to blow up chains in the mind. The Festival is building up a network and an infrastructure in the locations it performs to fight dystopian realities with utopian visions and to trigger transformative change for a sustainable one-world-future.
